ScotKart reopens Glasgow go-karting track

ScotKart, Scotland's leading indoor go-karting company, has officially re-opened its Cambuslang track after weeks of extensive refurbishment work.

Following an investment of over £320,000 returning racegoers and members can look forward to seeing an unrecognisable centre inside.

Dominic Gaynor, Managing Director of TeamSport, owners of ScotKart, said: "We're really excited to be re-opening our Cambuslang venue. It's been located at Westburn Road, Cambuslang for over 28 years and following TeamSport's acquisition last summer we felt it was time to refresh the site and improve the customer facilities to match that of our other sites across the UK."

"The first thing customers will see is our brand new reception area where karters will sign in and receive their race suit before heading to the briefing room. Returning racers will notice the difference on track too. It's been completely redesigned and the existing mezzanine has been made larger increasing the length of the circuit to 450m and allowing more karts on track at one time. Top of the range karts capable of reaching speeds of 40mph provide the thrills on track for adults and speed restricted cadet karts are available for kids as young as 8 years."

Gaynor continues "The track is the perfect place for an action-packed family day out offering a safe, unique and great value-for-money go-karting experience. For adults looking to come down with friends to finally put a stop to the all their false claims of being the best driver, our Open Timed Race Sessions will prove who gets the top spot on the podium, and for a fun teambuilding event that's sure to bring out the competitive streaks out in your staff our corporate race events are a great way to spend time together."

Indoor karting is growing in popularity as a hobby across all ages and ScotKart support this by running offers such as half price mid-week karting and discounts for students along with their exclusive Grid Membership scheme where racers receive a range of benefits including discounts and free karting on their birthday.
